AN EXCELLENT IDEA

The Belle Glade Lions Club has attempted to inaugurate what may prove the most worthy project ever to be undertaken by an Everglades civic organization. They have launched a program through their club to promote better understanding and improved relations between citizens of Pahokee and Belle Glade.

They realize, as do many other clear and fair minded citizens of this region, how utterly useless and futile is the constant bickering and quarreling between certain factions of the two communities. It is highly probable that a great amount of this so-called "animosity" is merely "talk" or gossip. Even so, it is natural that two thriving, growing communities, existing in the same richly productive region, should feel a certain rivalry in their relations. But it should be a friendly rivalry with absolutely no thought of hostility or active enmity. Those are feelings for uneducated, feuding hill-billies or countries of the Balkan regions of Europe. We live today in a supposedly enlightened world, amid cultural advances and improving social opportunities. We realize more than ever our dependence upon one another. Citizens of Belle Glade and Pahokee should also realize their dependence upon one another.

What seems most destructive of all, are the many opportunities for united action and constructive cooperation, lost forever through petty animosities. We are both brothers in the same back-yard. The same opportunities, the same advantages, the same problems face one as face the other. But, think of how much further we can progress if we work together instead of alone and against one another.

The first step toward a new ideal of united effort can be taken most effectively by the various civic organizations of the Everglades. These groups contain men and women active in the betterment of their respective communities. They represent the best interests of their communities. They are, or should be, educated, fair minded, responsible citizens. And they should be "opportunists," that is, men who realize that this is a time to unite our efforts into one gigantic movement designated to make the whole Everglades a finer, richer and better place to live in.

This newspaper calls on representative citizens of each community, civic leaders and officers of the Women's Clubs, Rotary organizations, Lions Clubs and Chambers of Commerce, to meet together in the formation of a "Pan-Everglades Committee," that would coordinate the efforts of the community difficulties, air out the demands of the citizenry of both communities and build up the Everglades as one great region—on one solid and substantial foundation.

This is your opportunity and ours!

AN AREA OF DIVERSIFICATION

The Everglades of 1949 will be a region of diversification.

This prediction seems entirely likely with the gradual introduction of livestock feeding program by various farmers, who formerly thought of nothing but winter vegetables, and the almost certainty that government sugar cane replanting will be lifted to allow growers of the Everglades free access to un-cultivated opportunities for sugar production.

But, there is also the strong possibility 1949 will find us an industrial place as well. Agriculture's industry as strictly agricultural pursuits as cattle raising, sugar cane and vegetable production.

Canning, refining, meat processing and many other industrial occupations suggest themselves as natural supplements to a region already endowed with fertile fields, year around growing seasons and labor advantages.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

As might be expected, I have received five letters since the publication of my last week's column, solemnly or vitriolically informing me that I don't know what I'm talking about, in spite of the fact that twice in the said column I explained in language that I thought clear the fact that I didn't claim to KNOW any more than the next guy, and probably not as much, and that the other fellow's guess was as good as mine.

So I find myself in the position of the poor husband who, after quarrel with his wife, while they were sitting back to back in a summer bed, decided to adopt a Chamberlain attitude, and said:

"Darling, I've been thinking it over and I'm sorry about it, but I know that I was wrong."

"So what?" snipped the wife, "you think that is going to do you any good? Crazy! I've changed my mind!"

If any of these letters agreed as to the truth, I know that of any one candidate I might feel that perhaps my personal views as advanced in the column were not good enough, but believe it or not, each of my helpful critics contended that a different man was the "Number One" contender, pointing out how much they had on the ball and how much all the other aspirants lacked.

All of which seems to indicate a wide divergence of opinion and promises an interesting campaign when the marble really gets under way.

I have also been informed that I failed to mention in which column of men who are potential candidates and I probably did. You see, I was trying to write a column, not compile a state directory, or an unbridled edition of "Who's Who" among gubernatorial prospects.

Among those called to my attention as probable entries in the race that I had failed to mention are Arthur Hale, Chairman of the State Road Department, Hans Walker of Ocala, who has already announced that he is a candidate, and is out beating the bushes, and Walter W. Rose, State Senator and prominent leader of Orlando.

Arthur, while he has given some thought to the matter and is being strongly urged by his friends to enter the race, is a long way from making up his mind. If he does decide to enter he will run a good race and corner a lot of votes other aspirants are counting on, but as the records stand, no "Crown Prince" of any administration has ever been able to make the grade and it is assumed that if Hale were to run he would certainly do so with the full support and backing of the present administration and there is a lot of divided opinion as to whether this would be an asset or a mill-stone.

Hans Walker I don't know enough about. Two not him a couple of times and he has a pleasant personality. His business record is good and he places much store on the fact that he is an orphan having adopted the slogan "From the Orphan's Home to the Governor's Mansion". It is a long road to travel "alone" and I'm inclined to believe that he would be better off if he did have a "mother" to guide him.

Walter W. Rose is an able and likeable, fair-haired boy of the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards who has championed the cause of the property owner against the grasping clasp of the taxgatherer.

If he enters the race he will probably be lunched with that group that are just a few lengths behind the winners but going strong. He might adopt as his campaign slogan "We Don't Need No More Taxes On REAL ESTATE". But, anyhow, from authoritative sources, you can latch him among those who are "OUT" for the governorship.

Among the most formidable firelighters of the past week is Senator Spencer Holland of Brevard. While certain disgruntled groups will turn their guns on him, he is a powerful and convincing orator and about the only faults that might be charged against him is that he goes to church, doesn't gamble, drink whiskey or chase women. He is somewhat of a stiff shirt and will have to develop an earthy touch if he hopes to click with the masses.

There is nothing to give a man a feeling of confidence in himself like being right in picking a good watermelon or cantaloupe.

The Florida Motor Lines report unusually heavy tourist travel throughout the state for the summer, with visitors turning to bus travel because of its comfort, convenience and safety.

Following a newspaper survey which disclosed at least 1,000 cases of amebic fever in the Miami area a campaign is being waged to require the pasteurization of all milk sold in the city.

PISCATORIAL PATTERN

About Those Who Try To Outwit The Finny Tribe In Lake Okechobee and Other South Florida Fishing Spots

Red Gurkin and Walter Ashley, accompanied by two unidentified strangers, set forth last week to redeem their piscatorial record to date.

Red and Walter, it will be remembered, spent several days about a month ago looking for fish—and, incidentally, a lake they didn't locate the lake they were especially desirous of finding. But they did catch some fish. My, my? They caught four of them; not four agone but four all together. They insist all of them were above the 12-inch line. How are they so sure? They measured 'em!

Pahokee Patrolman Reid Clif- "Spud" Murphy and Dick Bowman, leader in the fishing contest at Betanor's up until last week, are fishing again. Their two-way tie for first place was shattered last week by a 9-pound mammoth caught by Jim Henderson, Lake Harbor. Jim entered the beauty at the top of the list and "Spud" and Dick are looking for a few larger than the 8.34 pound specimens entered by them to date.

Louie Gold and S. G. Burns have been fishing again. Louie, as usual, didn't catch any. Burns hauled in several small bass. He managed to land a four pound 14 ounce one and win the weekly prize at Denton's.

With just a few more weeks to go the fishing contest at Denton's store is fast drawing to a close. Dave Cunningham is still in the lead with his nine pound seven ounce beauty. Dave says he's hoping none of the boys get real enthusiastic over the outcome of the contest. He needs that first prize at Denton's.

R. L. Hatcher, Kilgore man, hooked a 5 pound 14 ounce black bass that is threatening to capture the weekly prize at the Hardware Store. Hatcher could not contain himself after landing such a whopper and was reported on Wednesday of this week as being seriously threatened with social ostracism. That is to say, he was making himself obnoxious with repeated reports of the watery wonder.

Tom Reel at Port Mayaca is probably one of the finest farmers and citrus growers in this section, but he doesn't know a thing about how a suction dredge digs a canal. The other day he was fishing down in the lake bottom just over the canal. He was wading and gauged himself in an effort to follow the outer bank of the deep canal. He was walking straight along the canal bank when—all of a sudden he disappeared. Up and at his fishing business again. A few more minutes and he disappeared under the murky waters of the Lake. After about the umpteenth time of going under he asked a few questions and found out that every so often the suction dredge had dipped just a little further out than at other places. It was into these spots that Tom disappeared on more than one occasion.

The majority of fathers will tell you that their children know less than they do about everything except how to make a living for the family.

Pahokee Nine Lose Another Game And Drop Down Ladder

West Palm Beach Trims Locals 6-3 Sunday Afternoon

Pahokee's baseball nine dropped deeper into second division last Sunday by losing a 6-to-3 decision to the league-leader Merchants of West Palm Beach at Wright Field.

Although the Pahokians jumped to an early 2-to-0 lead in the first of the 4th, the West Palm Beach aggregation came back in their half of the inning to capitalize on three Pahokee errors and a timely hit to drive three runs across the platter. Burns, Merchant 2nd sacker, received a pass and promptly stole second and advanced to third on an infield out. Rose, next up, was safe at first on an error and then Gold reached first on another error, allowing Burns to score and Boise to take third. Another error and Rose's single scored Boise and Gold as the Pahokee infield blew completely away.

West Palm Beach added another in the 5th when two runs in the 7th but the damage had already been done.

Pahokee opened the scoring when Mock singled, the West Palm Beach infield bobbled a chance, and then Pugh and Baxter sacrificed jumping. Rupert, home with the first run of the game. The second bean-town run came in the fourth after Pugh reached first on an error, advanced to second on his brother's sacrifice, and rumped home when Pete Bardin doubled to deep center.

Pahokee added another tally in the first of the ninth when Bardin, trying to win his own game, singled, took second on an error and scored on Mock's drive through the box.

Government Sugar—

temperatures reach 20 degrees below zero.

By shipping pollen by air mail, 20,000 seedlings have been obtained for trials at Canal Point, Homa and Washington, D. C. Some of the cross-bred canes, using wild varieties from the Pacific islands, have resulted in larger-sized stalks, it was brought out.

To get earlier maturing varieties, sorghums have been crossed with sugar canes but so far have not contained enough sugar to be commercially practical. Efforts are being continued using sorghums that contain more sugar and to develop high sugar content in sorghums. Some of these sorghums are perennials, it was said.

Dr. Sartoris first came to the Glades in 1922 and has made observations that until the last few years, cane growing was limited to a few growers. Since 1933, the cane farmers of the Glades are including cane in their cropping programs.

Dr. Sartoris said "Sugar cane will tend to stabilize the agriculture of the Glades if each farmer will grow a few acres of cane."

Other visitors were W. V. Knott, State treasurer, J. H. Talley, head of the Insurance Division of the State Treasurer's office, Tallahassee.

Armored Service—

Chamber's banking committee, reviewed briefly banking situation as it now is and commented that the tremendous risk involved in transportation of money is a highly unfavorable situation. He said that it is only our "good luck" that robberies of persons transporting such large funds have not been committed. He added that the armored car service presents a solution to his dangerous condition as long as Belle Glade is without the services of a bank.

R. K. Harris, local insurance man and member of the town commission, said that the armored car service could not facilitate handling of draft accounts. This is a serious objection, he added, especially during the rush season when conversion of checks to a clearance of drafts is a time factor. He questioned the practicability of the plan for small merchants.

J. F. Scullen concluded the discussion with strong arguments in favor of the weekly except Sunday service and a motion for appointment of the committee was made by R. K. Harris.

Another Chamber of Commerce committee was appointed to meet with the local carpenter's union Thursday night in the Women's Club building to discuss proposals for non-union or union status of laborers on the Farm Administration camp projects to be commenced soon.

Peter Muller, local contractor, presented arguments in favor of regulations requiring unionization of workers on the project. He stated that reports the union required $125 for initiation fees were "lies." The initiation fee is $50, payable over a period of time, he asserted. Membership in the carpenter's local is $10, he added.

J. F. Scullen entered a plea for the local union to consider "local conditions" and permit free employment of labor on the projects, saying that the great majority of workers here are not and cannot become members of the union. He urged the employment of local labor as opposed to imported union labor. R. K. Harris and Phil Clarke also spoke in behalf of free employment of labor on the two government projects.

Town Commission—

sent to Senator Pepper and Andrews, Representative Cannon and the District Engineer of the U. S. War Department at Jacksonville, Fla.

A representative of the West Palm Beach committee which secured government appropriations for clearance of the West Palm Beach canal, explained that the Hillsborough canal project is a separate one and will require additional expenditure for use of the new hyacinth remover machine.

An ordinance providing appointment of a zoning commission to zone the town of Belle Glade was approved on a second and final reading. An annual fund for use by the commission is included in ordinance provisions. The commission was not named at Wednesday's meeting.

An ordinance setting up regulations for voting by persons not tending to be absent at the regular date for election, was read by the clerk and approved on first reading. The ordinance requires that all persons, who will not be in Belle Glade at the time of election, desire to cast their votes, apply to the town clerk for an official ballot which may be properly marked from 15 to 3 days before date of regular election.

Chairman Walter Greer asked that citizens be urged to register for voting before deadline date. According to Clerk C. Redmer, approximately 500 persons have registered to vote thus far with additional registrations coming in at the rate of about five a day.

Proposals for the naming of members of the Belle Glade fireman's pension and relief fund committee were deferred until next meeting. Each commissioner will name one of the five members. The names of L. E. Will and C. E. Riedel were suggested.

A request by the Hatfield Venetian Blind Company for permission to estimate prices for installation of venetian blinds in the new town hall was turned over to Commissioner R. K. Harris.

A proposal for purchase of the new Florida governmental directory was rejected. A communication in regard to street building was turned over to the street commissioner.

Waterworks bills amounting to $184.20 and general town department bills aggregating $234.36 were approved for payment when funds are available.

conventions within a space of thirty days, Walter has absorbed enough "Rotary" to render a genuine service to each and every member of the club. His accurate representations of all that occurred at the Rotary gatherings attracted members to enjoy the same benefits. And the new president seems to have taken an enthusiastic attitude toward the whole Rotary idea. The Belle Glade Rotary Club is indeed fortunate to have a leader with new ideas, energy enough to inspire them and conviction enough to carry them out. I look for solid accomplishments during the coming year.

Not to forget Belle Glade's newest civic group, the Lions, their movement to solidify the Glades into one friendly unit is worthy of deep consideration. If they can impress upon civic leaders of both Belle Glade and Pahokee the great value of cooperation, as opposed to conflict, then we'll get a lot further in a lot shorter time.

I was glad to read in the papers yesterday that my old home town, Minneapolis, sweeter in 90 degree heat day before yesterday.

Good! They get it in the neck once in awhile during the summer and there are frequent times when it doesn't cool off enough at night to permit sleep. I know of one enterprising young Jackson, whose acquaintance, name upon request, who slept out a particularly torrid night in the spray of the lawn hose, attired in bathing suit.

Hundreds of others brought families to the lake shores and slept all night with their heads immersed in the cooling waters. One little heat wave, three years ago, produced heat of above 100 degrees for 10 days straight. And it never went below 90 degrees during that same period at night. When?
